

A Note About Our List...

There often seems to be a never ending list of terms used to describe and evaluate wine. From the most general, color, smell, and taste, to the frequently used and often confusing tannin content, acidity, and alcoholic strength. In addition, different people have different levels of experience and certainly different opinions regarding wine. Needless to say, it can be a challenge deciding how to categorize a wine list.

At the risk of over simplifying things, I have chosen to use the "weight" of the wine as the means by which to organize, listing them from lightest to heaviest. The blended reds have been given their own categories as well as the sparkling and port wines. There are more thorough descriptions of each wine in the pages following the index, and of course a server, manager, or I would be happy to help answer any additional questions. Cheers! Mark
